RE: The NVIDIA GPU Litigation, Case No. 08-cv-04312-JW

This letter is to inform all concerned parties to an objection I have to the proposed settlement of the above NVIDIA GPU Litigation.

The objection is the list of included laptop computer models is incomplete. Specifically, it does not include an HP Pavillion model owned by me and unusable due to the same NVIDIA GPU chip issues as other listed models.

I purchased a HP Pavillion model DV2315nr on 6/1/2007 from Best Buy, Mt. Laurel, NJ. That computer model is included in the proposed settlement and it developed the video problems described in the litigation notice. Under the terms of a Best Buy Performance Service Plan purchased with the computer, Best Buy exchanged the DV2315nr for a similar HP Pavillion model DV2715nr (HP p/n KC453UA#ABA, serial no. 2CE8081HW4) on 3/15/2008.

The replacement computer has since developed both the video problem (nothing on laptop screen) plus the additional issue of failing to detect the wireless adapter, as described in the notice of proposed settlement.

The replacement computer model is not listed as included in proposed settlement in the litigation document.

I request the list of included HP models be expanded to include the DV2715nr (it is also identified on the HP label as a dv2500 series).

Thank you in advance for your consideration.
A response would be greatly appreciated.
